The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs and the Center for International Strategy, Technology, and Policy proudly present the Globalization, Innovation and Development speaker series. This series provides insight into the dynamics of innovation and economic development in a globalizing world. Our aim is to engage Georgia Tech faculty and students with cutting edge research from a multi-disciplinary perspective and encourage new research activities and collaboration. Participants in this series are both leading and promising researchers, and will spend a day at Georgia Tech to meet faculty and students in addition to presenting their current research.

We cordially invite you to join us in this truly exceptional program. Refreshments will be served.

Dr. Blyth’s presentation is co-sponsored by the European Union Center of Excellence at Georgia Tech.

Mark Blyth is Professor of International Political Economy in the Department of Political Science at Brown University. His research falls into three main areas; the role of ideas in politics; second, understanding how complex systems change, especially financial systems; third, how the first two concerns affect political parties and macroeconomic policymaking. He is or has been a visiting professor in the United Kingdom (University of Birmingham), France (Sciences Politique), Germany (University of Mannheim), and Denmark (Copenhagen Business School). He is the author of Great Transformations: Economic Ideas and Institutional Change in the Twentieth Century (Cambridge University Press, 2002); editor of The Handbook of International Political Economy: IPE as a Global Conversation (New York: Routledge Press 2009); co-editor of The Transformation of Great American School Districts: How Big Cities Are Reshaping Public Education, with William Lowe Boyd, and Charles Taylor Kerchner, (Cambridge: Harvard Education Press 2008); and Constructing the International Economy, with Rawi Abdelal and Craig Parsons, (Cornell University Press 2010). He is currently working on The End of the Liberal World?
